

To Whom it may concern:

I'm alarmed at the idea of telemarketers, once again, being able to force their way into my home and invade my family privacy! The past months, since signing up for the do not call list, have been peaceful and dinner is once a gain a pleasure! As a victim of a telemarketers verbal harassment and threats of physical injury upon my request to remove my number from the company calling list I applauded the long overdue do not call list. Please, do not take away the only protection we have against this form on home invasion! I'm sure your interest lies with the public's best interest and not that of any special lobby that might try to intice you. After all, I'm sure you too enjoy the benefits of the do not call list in your own home!

Sincerely,
